

HELP WANTED—FEMALE.

WANTED—Any one who writes a plain, neat hand can make good salary writing for Dr. J. C. Jones' Chemical Co. Send stamp envelope for particulars; 2500 Easton Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

WANTED, YOUNG LADY, with experience, for cashier: will open the stores and keep check and ledger, understand simple book keeping. Apply after 9 A. M. at TITLHAMMER BROS., Fifth and Broad Streets.

SITUATIONS WANTED—FEMALE.

WANTED—A graduate of a Virginia school with good training in French, mathematics, Latin, French, Music and the usual English branches; references exchanged. Address Miss M. Fredricks Hall, Va.

WANTED, by young lady, position as teacher in private school or family to teach the usual English branches, French, German and Music. Address Miss P. Palmyra, Va.

A LADY OF EDUCATION, energy and ability, 20 years of age, desires a position as housekeeper, nursery governess or as a companion to a widow or an elderly person. Object to travelling. Desires to furnish furnished. Address E. L. M., Box 18, Charlotte Courthouse, Va.

WANTED, position in private family; qualified to teach beginners in Music, English and Latin; four years' experience. Address Miss V. VIRGINIA, Colleton, Va.

A YOUNG LADY, graduate in shorthand and typewriting, desires a position in an office or school; best references. Address C. 223 Kalorama Street, Staunton, Va.

WANTED, a position as governess in family; country preferred. Address TEACHER, Old Church, Va.

SITUATIONS WANTED—MALE.

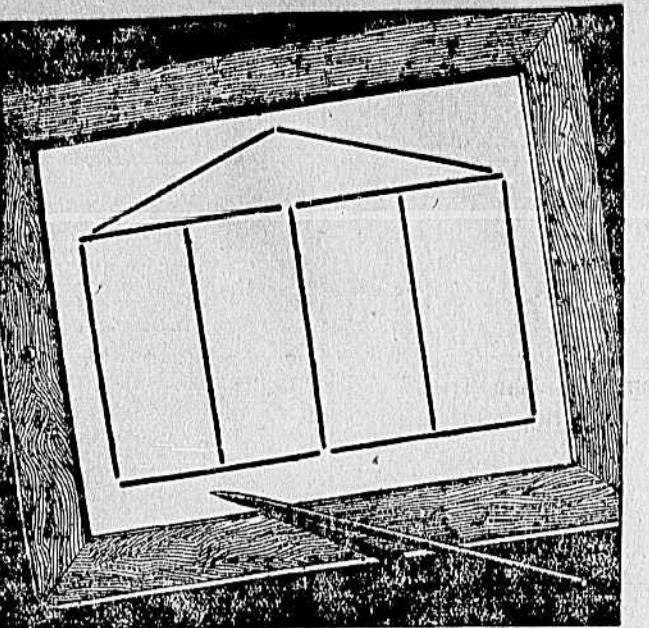

GENERAL of experience desires a school boy, music class qualifications, Latin, Greek, French, German, Mathematics, Music; state terms. Address "MUSIC," Goshen, Va.

BUSINESS WANTS

THESE HAVE DONE good where others failed—
BLANKS & S. Dime Liver Pills. Sold by reliable druggists; price, 10¢.

MISCELLANEOUS

CURES IN LESS time than ten minutes—
BLANKS. Headache and Neuralgia. Tablets.
Sold by reliable druggists; price, 10¢.

On this slate is drawn a Greek Temple, with eleven lines of even length. Erase four lines and add four lines of the same size and get eleven squares.

Solution of puzzle in yesterday's Times-Dispatch: She is just in front of the lady's fan, near right side of picture.

ROOMS WANTED.

WANTED, by two young men, nicely furnished ROOM, between Broad and Main, Third and Eighth; private family preferred; references exchanged. Address MACDT., care this office.

COLD CURE.

NIGHT COLD CURE: goes straight after the cold and can be rolled on to cure quickly. Sold by reliable druggists; price, 10¢.

ROOMS FOR RENT.

WANTED, occupants for two large ROOMS, single or en suite, furnished or unfurnished; convenient to board. Apply 202 South Third Street.

CANDIES.

FRESH CANDIES AT KAEMPF'S, 110 North Ninth Street.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY. TO-NIGHT.

Mr. Willard Simms
in the excruciatingly funny
farce comedy success

Pickings From Puck

TO-NIGHT ONLY

PRICES: 25, 35, 50, 75c, $1.00.

partments, the blame will be placed where it belongs.

Late yesterday afternoon in Ninth Street, northwest, I met a well-known Virginia lawyer, a member of that recent Constitutional Convention, who has a large practice in one of the Plaintiff counts.

"I am here on a personal errand," he said in reply to my question. "I am not here for the purpose of doing that which many of the people who hid me come think I am. The truth of the matter is that I am here to come here to see to it that my wife is recovered from her husband. I have an engagement to meet her, his husband and members of the family at 9 o'clock to-night. We will talk the matter over very fully and a decision will be reached as to the course to be pursued."

He went into Budd's, to get his dinner.

I could not find him later in the evening or this morning, so I cannot say whether he was successful in his efforts at effecting a reconciliation.

Dr. George Cooper, in his report to the United States Geological Survey on the production of abrasive materials in 1902, says the highest price obtained for garnet last year was for the product of North Carolina mines. The same report shows that the millstone grit and sand and clay in Virginia last year as $1.45.

The value of the product of North Carolina is, for some reasons, lumped with that of Vermont, the total for the two States being $82.50, the lowest noted. This nearly yearly report of the Geological Survey which attempts to enumerate States in which certain minerals are found names North Carolina, one of the richest States in minerals in the Union.

He went into Budd's, to get his dinner.

I could not find him later in the evening or this morning, so I cannot say whether he was successful in his efforts at effecting a reconciliation.

Dr. George Cooper, in his report to the United States Geological Survey on the production of abrasive materials in 1902, says the highest price obtained for garnet last year was for the product of North Carolina mines. The same report shows that the millstone grit and sand and clay in Virginia last year as $1.45.

The value of the product of North Carolina is, for some reasons, lumped with that of Vermont, the total for the two States being $82.50, the lowest noted. This nearly yearly report of the Geological Survey which attempts to enumerate States in which certain minerals are found names North Carolina, one of the richest States in minerals in the Union.

Enlarging upon the two plans proposed for the platform, Mr. Hay declared there was a very general belief in this country that the protective tariff policy was in a very large measure responsible for trusts, and that there was a reckless expenditure of public money by the officials of government such as would not be tolerated in any private business. He thought that in tariff revision the Democrats would not only be correcting an evil resulting in injustice to the consumer of protected articles, but would at the same time like the庶民, the working classes, which is demanded by sound public policy. Mr. Hay thought the Democrats would stand an excellent chance to win on a platform outlined as above, and with Gorman as the standard-bearer.

Hon. D. Lynn Gooch, member of Congress from Kentucky, expressed similar views at the meeting last night, and sincerely think Democratic chances are growing brighter every day, he said.

"By the time the campaign opens next year our candidate will have an even break with the opposition," Mr. Gooch thought either Mr. Gorman or Judge Parker would be a suitable candidate.

Although neither Mr. Hay nor Mr. Gooch mentioned an out and out anti-trust plank, it is evident they are popular, there is even now a think that the platform of the party a strong sentiment for conservative legislation on industrial combines, consistent with proper regard for property rights.

According to Representative James M. Grigg, Georgia, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, to discuss probable men and issues yesterday, but he was in such a hurry to catch his train he didn't have time to talk. His prospects are brighter every day," he exclaimed over his shoulder.

It is most noticeable that within the past two months there have been heard voices of hope and confidence from Democrats who were completely won over six months ago. There are many things developed this year which are calculated to make the country at large believe a change of administration desirable. The unheard of corruption in the Post Office Department is only a sample. It is believed there is other departments of government official soudainement about as great.

It looks like Republicans themselves voice in favor of a wholesale investigation of government departments. Representative Frank C. Walker, of Maryland, who has held a Republican seat in Congress from the Third District for five years, and is a man of ability and influence, declared last night that at the meeting of the Congress next winter he should offer and press a resolution providing for the investigation of all the departments.

Representative Elmer J. Burkett, of the First Nebraska District, one of the foremost Republicans of the House of Representatives, declared last night that there should be a thorough house-cleaning wherever there was irregularity or crookedness.

Other Republicans have expressed views similar to those of Mr. Walker and Mr. Burkett, and it is believed that the Democrats will oppose the effort of the Republicans to wash their soiled hands in full view of the American public on the eve of a Presidential election. And the fact that the election of a president is so close at hand makes the chances of an investigation such as has been mentioned very much greater than they would be were the investigation to be postponed until next year after the campaign had ended. However, that may be, it is certain that the Democrats are going to put it up to the Republicans, and if there is no problem into the affairs of the various de-

GORMAN GROWS IN FAVOR

Representative Hay Expresses the Opinion that With the Marylander as the Candidate, the Democrats May Win.

The Times-Dispatch Bureau,
No. 1417 G Street, N. W.,
Washington, D. C., September 2.

"Tariff revision and economical administration of the affairs of government as the cardinal features of the platform, with Gorman at the head of the ticket, would make a Democratic victory probable next year," said Representative Hay, of the Seventh Virginia District, at the Raleigh last night. Mr. Hay is pretty nearly the original Gorman man. Several months ago, when many Democrats were disposed to look upon Judge Parker as the most available Democrat for the nomination to the Presidency, Mr. Hay was steadfast in his advocacy of the nomination of the Maryland man, and now that so many other Democrats have come to his way of thinking, he is, of course, running over in the belief that the nomination of Mr. Gorman will come nearer insuring success than will that of any other man.

Enlarging upon the two plans proposed for the platform, Mr. Hay declared there was a very general belief in this country that the protective tariff policy was in a very large measure responsible for trusts, and that there was a reckless expenditure of public money by the officials of government such as would not be tolerated in any private business. He thought that in tariff revision the Democrats would not only be correcting an evil resulting in injustice to the consumer of protected articles, but would at the same time like the庶民, the working classes, which is demanded by sound public policy. Mr. Hay thought the Democrats would stand an excellent chance to win on a platform outlined as above, and with Gorman as the standard-bearer.

Hon. D. Lynn Gooch, member of Congress from Kentucky, expressed similar views at the meeting last night, and sincerely think Democratic chances are growing brighter every day, he said.

"By the time the campaign opens next year our candidate will have an even break with the opposition," Mr. Gooch thought either Mr. Gorman or Judge Parker would be a suitable candidate.

Although neither Mr. Hay nor Mr. Gooch mentioned an out and out anti-trust plank, it is evident they are popular, there is even now a think that the platform of the party a strong sentiment for conservative legislation on industrial combines, consistent with proper regard for property rights.

According to Representative James M. Grigg, Georgia, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, to discuss probable men and issues yesterday, but he was in such a hurry to catch his train he didn't have time to talk. His prospects are brighter every day," he exclaimed over his shoulder.

It is most noticeable that within the past two months there have been heard voices of hope and confidence from Democrats who were completely won over six months ago. There are many things developed this year which are calculated to make the country at large believe a change of administration desirable. The unheard of corruption in the Post Office Department is only a sample. It is believed there is other departments of government official soudainement about as great.

It looks like Republicans themselves voice in favor of a wholesale investigation of government departments. Representative Frank C. Walker, of Maryland, who has held a Republican seat in Congress from the Third District for five years, and is a man of ability and influence, declared last night that at the meeting of the Congress next winter he should offer and press a resolution providing for the investigation of all the departments.

Representative Elmer J. Burkett, of the First Nebraska District, one of the foremost Republicans of the House of Representatives, declared last night that there should be a thorough house-cleaning wherever there was irregularity or crookedness.

Other Republicans have expressed views similar to those of Mr. Walker and Mr. Burkett, and it is believed that the Democrats will oppose the effort of the Republicans to wash their soiled hands in full view of the American public on the eve of a Presidential election. And the fact that the election of a president is so close at hand makes the chances of an investigation such as has been mentioned very much greater than they would be were the investigation to be postponed until next year after the campaign had ended. However, that may be, it is certain that the Democrats are going to put it up to the Republicans, and if there is no problem into the affairs of the various departments.

According to Representative James M. Grigg, Georgia, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, to discuss probable men and issues yesterday, but he was in such a hurry to catch his train he didn't have time to talk. His prospects are brighter every day," he exclaimed over his shoulder.

It is most noticeable that within the past two months there have been heard voices of hope and confidence from Democrats who were completely won over six months ago. There are many things developed this year which are calculated to make the country at large believe a change of administration desirable. The unheard of corruption in the Post Office Department is only a sample. It is believed there is other departments of government official soudainement about as great.

It looks like Republicans themselves voice in favor of a wholesale investigation of government departments. Representative Frank C. Walker, of Maryland, who has held a Republican seat in Congress from the Third District for five years, and is a man of ability and influence, declared last night that at the meeting of the Congress next winter he should offer and press a resolution providing for the investigation of all the departments.

Representative Elmer J. Burkett, of the First Nebraska District, one of the foremost Republicans of the House of Representatives, declared last night that there should be a thorough house-cleaning wherever there was irregularity or crookedness.

Other Republicans have expressed views similar to those of Mr. Walker and Mr. Burkett, and it is believed that the Democrats will oppose the effort of the Republicans to wash their soiled hands in full view of the American public on the eve of a Presidential election. And the fact that the election of a president is so close at hand makes the chances of an investigation such as has been mentioned very much greater than they would be were the investigation to be postponed until next year after the campaign had ended. However, that may be, it is certain that the Democrats are going to put it up to the Republicans, and if there is no problem into the affairs of the various departments.

According to Representative James M. Grigg, Georgia, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, to discuss probable men and issues yesterday, but he was in such a hurry to catch his train he didn't have time to talk. His prospects are brighter every day," he exclaimed over his shoulder.

It is most noticeable that within the past two months there have been heard voices of hope and confidence from Democrats who were completely won over six months ago. There are many things developed this year which are calculated to make the country at large believe a change of administration desirable. The unheard of corruption in the Post Office Department is only a sample. It is believed there is other departments of government official soudainement about as great.

It looks like Republicans themselves voice in favor of a wholesale investigation of government departments. Representative Frank C. Walker, of Maryland, who has held a Republican seat in Congress from the Third District for five years, and is a man of ability and influence, declared last night that at the meeting of the Congress next winter he should offer and press a resolution providing for the investigation of all the departments.

Representative Elmer J. Burkett, of the First Nebraska District, one of the foremost Republicans of the House of Representatives, declared last night that there should be a thorough house-cleaning wherever there was irregularity or crookedness.

Other Republicans have expressed views similar to those of Mr. Walker and Mr. Burkett, and it is believed that the Democrats will oppose the effort of the Republicans to wash their soiled hands in full view of the American public on the eve of a Presidential election. And the fact that the election of a president is so close at hand makes the chances of an investigation such as has been mentioned very much greater than they would be were the investigation to be postponed until next year after the campaign had ended. However, that may be, it is certain that the Democrats are going to put it up to the Republicans, and if there is no problem into the affairs of the various departments.

According to Representative James M. Grigg, Georgia, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, to discuss probable men and issues yesterday, but he was in such a hurry to catch his train he didn't have time to talk. His prospects are brighter every day," he exclaimed over his shoulder.

It is most noticeable that within the past two months there have been heard voices of hope and confidence from Democrats who were completely won over six months ago. There are many things developed this year which are calculated to make the country at large believe a change of administration desirable. The unheard of corruption in the Post Office Department is only a sample. It is believed there is other departments of government official soudainement about as great.

It looks like Republicans themselves voice in favor of a wholesale investigation of government departments. Representative Frank C. Walker, of Maryland, who has held a Republican seat in Congress from the Third District for five years, and is a man of ability and influence, declared last night that at the meeting of the Congress next winter he should offer and press a resolution providing for the investigation of all the departments.

Representative Elmer J. Burkett, of the First Nebraska District, one of the foremost Republicans of the House of Representatives, declared last night that there should be a thorough house-cleaning wherever there was irregularity or crookedness.

Other Republicans have expressed views similar to those of Mr. Walker and Mr. Burkett, and it is believed that the Democrats will oppose the effort of the Republicans to wash their soiled hands in full view of the American public on the eve of a Presidential election. And the fact that the election of a president is so close at hand makes the chances of an investigation such as has been mentioned very much greater than they would be were the investigation to be postponed until next year after the campaign had ended. However, that may be, it is certain that the Democrats are going to put it up to the Republicans, and if there is no problem into the affairs of the various departments.

According to Representative James M. Grigg, Georgia, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, to discuss probable men and issues yesterday, but he was in such a hurry to catch his train he didn't have time to talk. His prospects are brighter every day," he exclaimed over his shoulder.

It is most noticeable that within the past two months there have been heard voices of hope and confidence from Democrats who were completely won over six months ago. There are many things developed this year which are calculated to make the country at large believe a change of administration desirable. The unheard of corruption in the Post Office Department is only a sample. It is believed there is other departments of government official soudainement about as great.

It looks like Republicans themselves voice in favor of a wholesale investigation of government departments. Representative Frank C. Walker, of Maryland, who has held a Republican seat in Congress from the Third District for five years, and is a man of ability and influence, declared last night that at the meeting of the Congress next winter he should offer and press a resolution providing for the investigation of all the departments.

Representative Elmer J. Burkett, of the First Nebraska District, one of the foremost Republicans of the House of Representatives, declared last night that there should be a thorough house-cleaning wherever there was irregularity or crookedness.

Other Republicans have expressed views similar to those of Mr. Walker and Mr. Burkett, and it is believed that the Democrats will oppose the effort of the Republicans to wash their soiled hands in full view of the American public on the eve of a Presidential election. And the fact that the election of a president is so close at hand makes the chances of an investigation such as has been mentioned very much greater than they would be were the investigation to be postponed until next year after the campaign had ended. However, that may be, it is certain that the Democrats are going to put it up to the Republicans, and if there is no problem into the affairs of the various departments.

According to Representative James M. Grigg, Georgia, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, to discuss probable men and issues yesterday, but he was in such a hurry to catch his train he didn't have time to talk. His prospects are brighter every day," he exclaimed over his shoulder.

It is most noticeable that within the past two months there have been heard voices of hope and confidence from Democrats who were completely won over six months ago. There are many things developed this year which are calculated to make the country at large believe a change of administration desirable. The unheard